

A survey or questionnaire is one of the most popular ways of collecting data from participants.
If

for this type of research, It may be the first time they have ever thought about an experience or even put into words their feelings about it.